Auspicious Occasion

Today, Thursday, M.S. Pendozi, the new Kelowna-Westbank Ferry, will slide down the ways to rest upon the water of Okanagan Lake.

The occasion is the most important single incident of the past decade of transportation progress in the entire Okanagan Valley. For several years past the traffic between Kelowna and districts to the north and points to the south has been delayed and curtailed by the insufficient service given by the present ferry which has been taxed to capacity during the summer months and, at the present time, is resulting in many cars, which seek to cross the lake during the busy hours of the day, being delayed.

The launching of the Pendozi is a definite step forward. The new craft will be able to accommodate on each trip twice the cars and trucks now carried by the present ferry. In addition the Pendozi will eliminate the necessity of turning around and is capable of a greater speed than the present craft and should provide a much faster service than that available at the present time.

The ferry across Okanagan Lake at this point is an integral part of the Valley highway system. All through traffic is dependent upon it and the highway can only be as satisfactory as the ferry permits it to be.

The Pendozi, once it settles into its regular schedule, should be in a position to give a vastly improved service. It should be able to eliminate much of the delay and consequent annoyance which is entailed under the present setup.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, minister of public works and today representing the province at the launching, will be the recipient of many congratulations from the people of this valley. These will probably be made at the launching itself and at the luncheon which the Kelowna board of trade is tendering to the official party and representatives of other valley cities and boards of trade. The luncheon is but part of the program that has been arranged to clothe the launching ceremony in an appropriate atmosphere.

As the Pendozi slides down the ways, it will be the outward and visible sign of a progressive step affecting the welfare of the entire Okanagan from the border to Salmon Arm.

Golden Opportunity

A week from today, Thursday, the property owners of Kelowna will go to the polls to register their approval or disapproval of the bylaw which will permit the city to obtain possession of the southern half of the present C.P.R. property at the foot of Bernard Avenue and immediately adjoining the entrance to the city park.

The bylaw is an important one as it gives the city control of strategic property at its very front door. The present C.P.R. buildings are an eyesore from any part of the business section of Bernard Avenue. It is known that the C.P.R. is very desirous of disposing of this property as it is too valuable and the assessment too great for it to be used to the present limited extent. It is now used to house the express offices of the company and it is understood that the company desires to locate this office in a more central position in the business section.

If the property owners refuse to sanction the purchase of this property the C.P.R. will doubtless arrange to sell to private interests. This would mean that the entire lakefront strip from the park entrance to the Kelowna Sawmill office would fall into the possession of private individuals whose sole purpose would be to turn it to their best possible financial advantage. It would mean that the provincial government would not obtain possession of the northern half of the property which it has designated as the site for a new provincial building to house all the local provincial offices. It would mean that Kelowna would lose the present opportunity of obtaining a provincial building.

Should the property fall into the hands of private individuals it might be put to some use which would be of far greater detriment to the city than that for which it is now used. A tourist camp on this site would detract from the appearance of the city while a dozen other businesses might be established there which would have a definitely detrimental effect on that section of the city and the city park itself.

Should the property owners agree to the transaction, the city would, as soon as possible, remove the C.P.R. buildings and make some preliminary attempt to make the property presentable. A future program would embrace making this spot an adjunct of the park and a beauty spot which would permit a pleasing view of the lake from the main business section.

Every city council for the past decade has dreamed of obtaining control of this property. The city now has the opportunity of obtaining the property virtually as a gift. The financial transaction is so advantageous that the net cost to the city would be about only twenty-five hundred dollars. Kelowna cannot afford to turn down the opportunity by defeating the bylaw.

Important Grower Sessions

The two-day meeting of the grower-delegates in this city on Friday and Saturday last was not unproductive. Twenty-five responsible fruit growers are bound to find many subjects for discussion and voice a wide variation of opinions. The most important tasks of this body of men were the nomination of candidates for the B.C. Tree Fruit Board, the election of the B.C.F.G.A. executive and the election of the board of governors or directors for Tree Fruits Ltd., the organization which will be designated the single agency under the central selling setup. Curiously enough, these most important items of business were those most quickly despatched and provoked no discussion whatsoever.

It was apparent from the first that there would be an election for the fruit board. It was definitely taken for granted by every speaker and when the time came for the nominations the names of Thomas Wilkinson of Kelowna and Percy French of Vernon, as well as those of the present three members of the board, were proposed and allowed to stand. Accordingly, during the next few days the registered growers will receive ballots upon which they will indicate the three of the five men they prefer to have sit on the board.

The discussion as to the board members' remuneration revealed a wide divergence of opinion. Some of the delegates were definitely of the opinion that under the new setup the board would have but little to do and should act for a small retainer and a small per diem allowance. Other delegates were of the opinion that the board would still have many important functions to perform and were, in addition, adverse to curtailing the board at the present time until the central selling scheme had been definitely proven. With this in mind this group advocated that the board members' salary remain unchanged this year. A compromise was finally arrived at with the remuneration being set at ten dollars per day and expenses with the rider that the total remuneration should not exceed three thousand dollars, which would approximate the amount the members would receive if they worked full time at the per diem stipend named.

If the nominations for the fruit board provoked little debate, the election of the eight members of the board of governors or directors of Tree Fruits Ltd. was carried through without a word of comment. It was apparent that the various geographical sections had selected their representatives and the whole body had agreed to accept the men selected by the district delegates.

The election of the executive of the B.C.F.G.A. was also carried through with despatch although there was considerable discussion about the Kootenay representative and a ballot was necessary to decide the issue. A. K. Loyd was selected president amid words of appreciation of his services in the past.

While several resolutions were passed the two most interesting were that advocating the bringing down of the MacGregor report at the earliest moment and that serving notice upon individuals or firms that any effort to prevent the successful working of central selling would be opposed by the growers. The latter resolution affirmed the principle of controlled marketing and indicated that any obstruction methods instituted by individuals or firms would result in definite counter methods being taken by the growers. The resolution but bore out the impression given by the recent overwhelming majority of the vote on central selling that the growers are determined that no private person or firm will be allowed to stand in their way in their efforts to attain a central selling scheme for the disposal of the crop.

The Tree Fruit Board and the B.C.F.G.A. directors' meetings last week may prove to be of paramount importance. The 1939 meetings may be recalled in future years as one of the most important sessions of these bodies. The control of Tree Fruits Ltd. was divorced from the fruit board and placed in the hands of eight governors or directors and warning was served that the growers, united and determined, will brook no interference with their plans.

Their Majesties Arrive

Their Majesties are now on Canadian soil and the long-anticipated visit has become an accomplished fact. Some idea of the place they occupy in the hearts of the British people was shown in the nature of the farewell given them as they left London and subsequently Portsmouth.

As enthusiastic as this demonstration was, however, it paled into insignificance before the welcome their Majesties received as they stepped upon Canadian soil. Their welcome here combined both affection and loyalty in a deep sense together with recognition that those who thronged to witness the arrival realized they were participants in an historic event which may form a precedent for Royalty in the future. No reigning monarch has ever visited Canada before; save in the case of the Durbar at Delhi no sovereign of the British realm has ever crossed the confines of Europe to the Empire overseas. There is a change of custom, therefore, which cannot fail to be appreciated because of its significance. The present King and Queen desire to know their people more intimately. In doing so they will strengthen one of the strongest ties of Empire, that of a common allegiance to those principles of justice and freedom for which British sovereignty stands.

There is a loyal and enthusiastic welcome awaiting Their Majesties in every section of this Dominion, both for what they represent and for themselves. To a great degree, perhaps, ultimately, it may be found altogether so, the King is having extended over him the mantle of love and respect with which the people invested his father. He has done everything to deserve this by his truly royal conception of the duties of his great office. He has as his consort one whose winsomeness and gracious qualities have endeared her to all. Such a royal couple may be assured that they will find in this their Dominion as appreciative, heartfelt and truly cordial a greeting as would be accorded to them anywhere within the widespread British domain.

F. B. DeHart has received yet another prize from the international apple show at Spokane, this one being an "honorable mention" for district displays.

There has been a delay in letting the school contracts, as the trustees are investigating the most modern methods of heating and ventilating.

W. A. Hunter has disposed his successful grocery and baking business to Bligh & Poole, Mr. Bligh having been in charge of the T. Lawson grocery department. Mr. Poole is arriving from the coast this week.

A false alarm was sounded by the power house whistle on Friday to test the siren with which the fire brigade boys could turn out and they made a creditable showing, getting the reel out in little more time than regular practice. The engine was taken out on Tuesday evening, hauled by a team, with the boys running behind with the reel. They made a fine dash up Bernard avenue to the Presbyterian church and back again.

The irrigation system of the Central Okanagan Land & Orchard Co. in Mission Valley is now complete, irrigating between three and four thousand acres to the Grey canal in White Valley, it is probably the most extensive system at present in the Okanagan, counting the mileage of its main supply canal, twelve miles from reservoir to ditch head.

The Farmers Exchange intends to erect a large and substantial building this summer on a lot recently acquired at the new C.P.R. freight station. The new fruit packing house on the lower K.L.O. bench for Strilling & Pitelcan has reached completion.

A Tourist Spends

A wag once remarked that the only reason any of us ever worked was in order that we might play. Well, there are such trifling matters as the rent and the grocery bills to keep us reminded of our jobs. But whatever the reason for, and however one may have to work to obtain it, most will agree that a period of rest and play is the high spot in the life of any individual. And what a gigantic business the health and recreational activity has created for scores of industries and organizations and for millions of individuals!

If you are statistically inclined, you can obtain from the railways, from the steamship companies, from the buses and from the airways, the exact number of "passenger miles". You can check the registrations at hotels and at the resorts. By approximation you can arrive at the number of these travellers who are strictly pleasure seekers. You can ascertain how many million baseball, football and hockey fans pass through the turnstiles.

Then too, you can get a fairly close approximation of the number of dollars spent every year in advertising this great business of recreation. The media advertising volume can be readily obtained; but we predict a Herculean task in arriving at a reasonably accurate total for the enormous volume of travel literature. This phase of the business alone staggers the imagination.

Yes you could, if you chose, gather together long reams of figures to determine fairly accurately just to what magnitude this strictly recreational business reaches. But we defy you to approximate the amount of additional business it creates of a completely miscellaneous and general nature. After all is not a vacation in any form a period of unusual spending? During such an event, is it not a fact that dollars flow more freely than in any similar period? Consider the myriads of odds and ends in apparel and accessories, the gasoline and oil, the food and lodging, the sporting goods purchases, the endless variety of impulse purchase.

And then, think of the effort the Okanagan and the individuals living therein are making to obtain a fair share of the world's most lucrative business.

Among the provisions in the bill is the ruling that owners must sell property if it is desirable and considered to be retarding agriculture.

The Glenmore local of the United Farmers of B.C. has gone on record as appealing against the local road superintendent because of the deplorable condition of the roads.

Tom Trevellick's umpiring of a baseball game is said to have held the interest of the spectators right through the contest, his judgment on fouls along the first and third base lines being particularly remarkable.

How to limit the number of dogs and to keep them from chasing pedestrians in the city park was the subject of council debate this week.

Work has commenced on the new opera house on Bernard next to Lawson's store. The structure, being built by Mrs. Rayner, will be applicable for picture shows and plays. When finished the structure will cost between $20,000 and $25,000.

f.p.m.'s column

ONE OF THE FEW compensations of a reporter's life is to sit at a meeting, detached from personal interest, and watch the play of emotions, the jockeying for position, the roundabout means of obtaining a point. Often it is as good as a first class play and what might have been boredom is turned for the reporter into an hour or two of interesting entertainment. Such good theatre was the two-day session of the grower-delegates here last week.

IT WAS INTERESTING to be an observer and to watch the progress of the debates, the ebb and flow of the tide as one viewpoint gained the ascendancy only to lose it before the onslaught of another. And presently, the reporter was able to anticipate the line of comment some of the speakers would take; they held a definite viewpoint and never deviated from it. But some of the delegates were unexpected. They veered from point to point as a weathervane in a rapidly shifting breeze. Others seemed to weight each matter on its own merits and forget what had gone before or what might come after.

AFTER TWO DAYS of listening to discussions the listener inevitably formed definite impressions of the personalities of the delegates. Some, it is true, said not one word during the whole two days but their reticence was overshadowed by the verbosity of others. Considering the meeting after a two-day interval this reporter finds more or less definite adjectives with which to tag some of the delegates. William Steel of Naramata, a bit of a Scottish burr coloring words brief and to the point. George Mabey of Oliver, positive, argumentative, fighting for a point and upholding the "honor of the south". W. J. Coe of Winfield, deep voice in the thick of every discussion, nicknamed by one delegate "The Great Commoner". Roby Robinson of Creston, terse, sensible. S. F. Hitt of Armstrong, solid appearance belied by shifting opinion. C. R. Newman of Sorrento, academic. A. T. Howe of Coldstream "the Voice of Experience". Major McElligott, the military redtape mind. Archie Lawson, looking at the Okanagan through Grand Forks glasses. A. K. Loyd, velvet gloves covering steel hands. Capt. D. M. Balfour of Salmon Arm, philosophical and logical. G. Desjardis of Penticton, a mighty atom. Percy French of Vernon, "the master farmer". T. D. Shaw-MacLaren of Oyma, dour golfer. C. S. Squires of Robson, methodical. E. Snowsell of Glenmore, belligerently suspicious.

NOT NEARLY AS interesting as the bare-foot boy's rag-wrapped toe... visible at a price... nor half as distinguished as a case of gout, are the "best feet" now being shamelessly put forward by the ladies. Toes poke pertly out of holes in milady's shoes. Heels rise bumpily over uncomfortable-looking ridges of leather, giving shoes a cut-up look. This, mind you, not by accident, which one could condone, but by ghastly design. For when were lumpy, stubby toes a thing of beauty? The nerve strain, too, of sitting staring at toes pushing, straining, all but bursting through the thin shielding of silk, expecting the hose to come apart any minute and expose the girl friend's deformed pedal extremities, must be considerable for any sociable swain. No wonder more men are taking up pool and billiards.

NOW THAT HORSESHOE pitching has been taken from the alley and the barnyards to a position second only to golf among the sports patronized by all men, and summer resort hotels with access to golf courses also possess horseshoe pitches, or whatever they are called, a great wrong is being done this fine pastime. As it was in golf, so it is in the game of horseshoes and leasers. The amateur is being discouraged. The Dominion bureau of statistics does not record how many Sunday golfers have broken or given away their clubs and retired from the game with a lifetime average of a hundred and twenty because they have read too much about the feats of Bobby Jones or Lawson Little. It would make an interesting investigation. Now the occasional pitcher of horseshoes is treated to the performances of Ted Allen of California, world's champion. Allen, who uses a one and a quarter turn toss, allows a man to sit on the stake, and without disturbing him throws one finger after another. He stands a man with a paper bag on his head in front of the stake and pitches a shoe which removes the bag and pins it to the peg. He allows two men to interpose a blanket between himself and the stake and tosses an infallible succession of rings over it. Since reading about Mr. Allen, we have foresworn horseshoes.

DAYLIGHT SAVING advocates in this province received their biggest boost when Vancouver gave the fast time idea a majority of eight votes in a poll of twenty-five thousand. Not a big majority it is true but it still was a majority and any kind of a majority was welcome. Personally I thought the idea would be snowed under in Vancouver but apparently the people there are beginning to "see the light" in daylight saving. Speaking of snowing under, the story around this neck of the woods that evening and the next day, was that daylight saving had been snowed under. It was not until the newspapers, good, old reliable newspapers arrived, that the majority of people received the true picture. The same applied to the bylaws in Vancouver, which were reported here as all badly defeated, while actually two out of three were approved.

A NEWSPAPER OFFICE is asked a lot of puzzling questions. Many it can answer or find the answer to without a great deal of trouble. One the other day however was a stinkier. What is the latitude and longitude of Kelowna? Apparently we were about the last port of information as the government office and most of the other likely bodies and persons had declared their ignorance. Personally I had not the slightest idea excepting it was somewhere north of the forty-ninth parallel. Searching through what sources of information I had available, I failed to find a satisfactory answer but after digging around with maps we finally arrived at an approximate idea. Slightly less than the fiftieth parallel of latitude and longitude about one hundred and nineteen and a half degrees. Some person may know the exact position complete to the minutes. If so I would appreciate it if he would pass it on. It would be worth entering in my "bureau of worthless information".

A K. LOYD, every one in a while comes out with several choice stories. In the past I have wondered how he managed to keep them all straight as they are on a wide variety of subjects and there is always one to illustrate every topic. I have discovered that he has a little red book and when he hears one which tickles his fancy, he jots it down. It is a good idea and one which more of us should adopt. Personally, I cannot remember a story for an hour. A K.'s little red book contributed the following little tidbit which at the moment seems insipid but at the time I thought was so jolly good that I jotted it down. A United States high school weekly magazine with a national circulation, called "Scholastic," recently featured a "Canada issue" in which various information about our Dominion of interest to school teachers in the States, was set forth. The general tenor of the information is indicated by the statement that Canada is "a land requiring a moujik (Russian peasant) type of peasant with a low standard of living and able to work sixteen hours a day in the Siberian climate." I am sure the Canadian farmer and orchardist will appreciate that.

George A. Robinson, of Bennington, Vt., says that the best way to preserve cucumbers is to grow them right in the bottle. He has one five inches tall and three in diameter, which nearly fills its soda-bottle greenhouse. All he has to do now is add sugar and vinegar, snip the vine, cap the bottle, and keep until ready to serve.

W. E. Haskins Urges Continuance Of Full-Time Board in Lengthy Address to Nominating Convention

Characterizes Central Selling as Step Forward in Improvement of Marketing Arrangements—Claims Board Under Act Saved Growers from Disaster This Year—Central Selling Started with Publication of Statements in The Courier Last Year

CHARACTERIZING the central selling scheme proposed as a step forward in the improvement of marketing arrangements, W. E. Haskins, chairman of the B.C. Fruit Board made a lengthy and impressive address to the nominating convention of delegates gathered from all parts of the Interior in Kelowna last Friday morning. His address was an important one, in the face of the impressions which had been abroad regarding the fruit board's attitude and The Courier has reproduced it practically in full. Mr. Haskins' address follows:

Five years ago, in opening the meeting of delegates, I referred to it as an historic occasion.

It was historic because that was the first meeting of delegates under any marketing legislation.

The meeting today is equally historic, and much more important, because you are met here, not only to nominate a Board, but also to establish a central selling scheme for the sale of the growers' product.

This new step is not made necessary by a failure of the last one. It is but another step forward in the improvement of marketing arrangements.

It is important that in taking the next step forward, we do not imply any dissatisfaction with our marketing legislation, for throughout Canada this type of legislation is only now being introduced. It is important to us that boards similar to our own should be set up in other provinces, and that other provinces be encouraged by the results obtained here to proceed with the establishments of boards under their new legislation.

The passing of such legislation, and its successful operation in the other provinces, will surely in time convince the Federal government of the need for Federal marketing legislation. In the State to the south of us, they, too, are watching our progress, and poor as our returns seem to us, they are regarded with envy by many of the Washington producers. It would be of great value to us to have boards similar to our own set up in the State of Washington, for our returns both on the Domestic market and Export market, particularly in Great Britain, are very materially influenced by the lack of organization and control in the sale of the Washington crop. It is no exaggeration to say that the eyes of the whole agricultural body of Canada are upon us at present, and our influence extends, as I have said, into the United States and even into New Zealand and Australia.

The last season's operations were undoubtedly the most difficult ever faced in the marketing of the crop. The international situation, with its alarms and uncertainties, caused depressed business conditions everywhere in Canada. The national position, particularly in our chief market, the Prairie market, was unsatisfactory due largely to the drought on the Prairies the preceding year, and to the low price of wheat for the 1938 crop. The British Columbia market was adversely affected by the large crop in the Fraser Valley, and on the Island, and in our Eastern markets there was an abundant supply of home grown fruit. In addition to this, the citrus crop, which is our principal competitor for the consumers dollar, was the largest in their history, and oranges were sold, and are still being sold, at prices which will net the orange grower practically nothing, and made them cheaper than our own product. These are facts.

I know that any effort to explain the reason for poor returns is always regarded with suspicion, but you, gentlemen, are here now to receive the report of three men elected by the growers to control the marketing of their product, and as I have said, to criticize or commend them.

On this difficult market we had to control the placing of the largest crop in our history. At the beginning of the season it was freely predicted and generally believed by all shippers that there would of necessity be a large dump, but with the exception of a small quantity on hand, this record crop has all been marketed, and with less fluctuation in the price structure than occurred in the marketing of the 1937 crop.

It is unfortunately true that the amount we have received as growers for our product has been unprofitable but that is a condition which prevails generally with respect to agricultural products. The citrus fruit growers of California and Florida and the fruit growers of the State of Washington, the wheat growers of the Prairies, and, generally speaking, all those engaged in agricultural pursuits, find themselves in the same, or a worse position. It surely follows from this that the unsatisfactory returns received should not without examination and some specific reason be attributed to a fault to the Board but rather to economic conditions.

The question you should consider is not whether returns have been satisfactory but whether they could have been enhanced by some steps which the Board omitted to take or whether any steps or decisions made by the Board are responsible for growers receiving a lower price than they otherwise would.

If you believe this to be so, you ought surely to state your opinion, and reasons, and permit a full and free discussion of them by the Board and the delegates present.

It is admitted by all those acquainted with marketing conditions that without the control exercised by the Board, the past season would have been one of the most disastrous in our history, and the growers were only saved from this disaster by the control exercised under the Act.

For five years you have had a board consisting of three members, who have given their full time to the work before them. The question of a full-time board as opposed to a part-time board has not arisen for some years, but the question was very thoroughly and fully discussed in the earlier years of the Board, and it was definitely settled that it was important to have a full time board. This question has on more than one occasion been raised in our conventions, and the decision for a full-time board has been there affirmed. On this point you have, so far as I know, no mandate for any change. It is for you to consider whether you should make a change in this respect and whether in our efforts to advance we should abandon a safe position before we have made the new one secure.

As many of you know, I have always earnestly advocated a full-time board. I have always believed, and after five years' experience on the Board I believe more firmly now than ever, that no person can successfully serve the growers and himself at the same time.

The Board is charged with a great responsibility. Its authority amounts virtually to the right to make bylaws or regulations which must be obeyed by every grower and every distributor, under penalties which may be either fine or imprisonment. Even the agency which you propose now to set up for the handling of the growers' product must obey the regulations passed by the Board.

This responsibility rests upon the shoulders of the Board members with respect to an industry amounting to millions of dollars, and affects the welfare of every fruit grower from Kamloops to Creston, and not only the fruit growers, but the other citizens of the community who are partly dependent upon the prosperity of the industry for their own prosperity.

In view of this, gentlemen, can you honestly believe that persons engaged in earning their own living in any other manner, particularly a fruit grower operating his own ranch, and having his mind filled with the manifold cares of a fruit grower, worried and harassed as he is by frost and hail, wind and pests, and other difficulties; worried by the necessity of giving constant thought to his horticultural practices, in order to wrest a bare living under the present adverse marketing conditions, can at the same time give sufficient thought to his duties as a member of the Board? To think so, it seems to me, is to imply either that a fruit farmer need give little thought to his own affairs; or that he need give little thought to his duties of office.

I used to say, when this matter was discussed before it became a settled plan to have a full-time board, that I would not like to see a member of the Board hold office even as president of a golf club or as director of the Board of Trade, because I believe that a member of a board such as this can only render the best service to those who have elected him if his mind is engaged, in office hours and out of office hours, with the many problems which confront him. Indeed it is my experience, and I say this to you with

Mission Creek Wins Public School Aggregate at Rural Track Meet; Rutland Takes High School Events

Eleven Schools in Central Okanagan Take Part in Annual Athletic Event—Mayor Jones Congratulates Contestants and Asks Them to Remember at All Times They Are Canadians

THE annual track meet of the central Okanagan Valley rural schools was held under ideal weather conditions at the Kelowna athletic park on Friday, May 12th. Eleven schools competed in the public school events and four in the high school contest. In the main competition between public schools the Mission Creek school won the Gyro cup by a fair margin, with a total of 71½ points. The runner up was Winfield with 65 points.

In the high school events Rutland Day won by a wide margin, with 47 points to Oiyama's 17. All the smaller schools Elliott; 2. J. Kitaura; 3. Frank Allington started with a handicap, 45 points for ham.

The final standing of the schools was as follows, with the handicaps named first in each case:
Mission Creek, 25 plus 46½—71½; Winfield, 35 plus 30—65; Elliott, 35 plus 22—57; East Kelowna, 35 plus 17½—52½; Rutland, 0 plus 51—51; South Kelowna, 45 plus 5—50; Mt. Boucherie, 45 plus 2—47; Bear Creek, 45 plus 0—45; Oiyama, 35 plus 7—42; Benvenuto, 35 plus 0—35; Westbank, 25 plus 5—30.

At the close of the meet Mayor O. L. Jones of Kelowna presented the cups to the teams and individuals. In a few introductory remarks the Mayor urged all the participants to consider the Kelowna park as theirs, just as much as if they were Kelowna residents, and to make full use of it at all times. He also noted the cosmopolitan nature of the gathering and how they had all competed together in the friendliest spirit, and urged them to retain that spirit of good comradeship, and not to let anyone turn them away from that ideal, to remember that they were all Canadians, regardless of the national origin of their parents.

His Worship then presented the following cups—Kelowna Gyro cup, grand championship Mission Creek; K.R.T.A. cup (boys aggregate) Allan Elliott; Winfield: Alma Gray Memorial cup (girls aggregate) Margaret Lanfranco; Mission Creek: Bennett Hardware cup (100 yards boys' open) Basil Bond; Rutland: K. G. Exchange cup (440 yards boys' open relay), Elliott public school; Newby cup (300 yards girls' open, public school relay), Mission Creek; Kelowna Courier cup (220 yards mixed relay, 12 and under) Winfield; Capital News shield, (100 yards girls under 20) Heather Stewart; Rutland; Morrison Hardware cup, (300 yards relay, boys 14 and under) Winfield; Occidental Fruit Co. cup, (200 yards relay, girls 14 and under) Mission Creek; Royal Anne cup, (75 yards girls, 16 and under) Frieda Quigley; Rutland; Crown Fruit Co. cup, (220 yards, boys, 18 and under) Basil Bond; Rutland; Kelowna Sawmill cup, (50 yards, girls, 14 and under) Frieda Quigley; Rutland; B.P.O.E. trophy, (100 yards, boys, 16 and under) Bill Ritchie; Mission Creek; Independent Hardware cup, (pole vault, 20 and under) Rod McLeod; Rutland; Thompson cup, (high jump, girls under 16) Annie Stewart; East Kelowna; C.O.V. rural school cup, (high jump, boys, 16 and under) Horace Williams; Rutland; Fumerton cup, (high jump, boys, 14 and under) Allan Elliott; Winfield.

TALK ON CONTRAST OF OPPORTUNITIES AROUSES INTEREST

L. L. Kerry Compares Conditions of Thirty-five Years Ago in Canada to Present Times

An interesting talk on the contrast between conditions for youth now and those of thirty-five years ago in Canada was given by Mr. L. L. Kerry to the Young People's Society of the United Church May 14.

At that time almost anyone could obtain work, stop when he wished and then find another job although 1,000 persons were pouring into Canada daily.

In a few years millions of immigrants came, most being from the British Isles. Canada and Australia were opportunity lands and young men went to the one for which he could afford the fare. He believed that immigration schemes had been unwisely conducted. Hundreds of each nationality were afterwards deported. Careful selection would have prevented thousands of misfits entering.

Believing that there are less opportunities for young people, he said that they could help themselves by being vitally concerned in affairs of their country. Most parliament members are a generation older than those starting their life work and they haven't the viewpoint of youth.

Young people could swing the vote if they wished. Their apathy is seen in important affairs. Very few attend political meetings. They should find which candidate is the best and it would repay them for their interest.

Young people are fortunate that they have many more educational opportunities than their parents had but unluckily many cannot utilize their training.

Canada is losing many young people of the best type who are not able to find work at home and they are emigrating to New Zealand and also to England's air force. Many formerly went to the United States where they were welcomed for their skill and character. If lack of opportunity continues so will the stream of skilled persons continue to leave and benefit other nations.

Mr. Kerry was thanked by Ruth Peel, chairman. A farewell was given to Albert Daynard, group leader, who left Monday to work again at the Nelson post office.

Sport Gossip

By J. R. A.

Ed won by a stomach. It is not often that corpulency is an asset, but last Thursday afternoon a fat, nicely rounded stomach won for smiling Ed Neff a foot race which should, but won't, go down in history. How it all happened no one seems to know, but suffice it to say that three coffee hounds, Ed Neff, Dick Parkinson and Jim Calder ran the race. Great was the preparation. Charles DeMara backed Neff, and George Handlen was true to his friend Parkinson. But nobody was foolish enough to think Jim Calder would win and he was left all by himself. Calder secreted himself down in the wilds of Manhattan and trained faithfully for a week, with skipping exercises. He even refused his favorite soft drink for a week so that he would be in the pink of condition.

Neff ran several miles each day looking for prospects and trying to wear down that precious protuberance which eventually won him the race. Ed is just as pleased now that he only ran half a mile looking for prospects and then gave up, laid down under a tree and went to sleep, thus saving his bay window, which resembles Santa Claus' best effort.

But this guy Parkinson was a sorry man. He was also just a pain in the neck to little George Handlen. Handlen had been working for a week, training his man Parkinson for the crucial test. And what do you think? Parkinson broke training Wednesday night at the shippers' dance and came back to Kelowna more ready for a good nap more than for a foot race.

The crowning part of this whole story was that the school students chose last Thursday afternoon to stage their inter-class track meet. There were about a hundred of them around the track and to bewildered Dick Parkinson when he turned the corner into the park, there seemed to be thousands. In fact, if Chas. DeMara's car wasn't right behind Parkinson's, he would have turned tail and beat it faster than he arrived, but the exit was blocked.

Great was the joshing on the part of contenders and managers alike. Handlen was trying to wile on his bet and get it cut down to half a dozen instead of a dozen, but DeMara wasn't having any. Handlen claimed, and rightly enough, that his man Parkinson wasn't in shape, that his heart action was too rapid, and that he had fallen arches. But the others were adamant. The race was on and so were the bets so that was that.

After witnessing a fast 220 yards which gave the boys courage to strut their stuff, the terrible trio lined up, while more than a hundred students watched with amused although slightly bored airs, as much as to say that they could do a lot better and what was the idea of three has-beens like that trying to run, anyway. They should be carrying canes around after reaching 35.

Candid Calder was the first to break the gun, and he gave the other two footloose backers some anxiety as he displayed a nice burst of speed. (Len Roth let the cat out of the bag when he told George Handlen that Jim had been training for a week, and he couldn't understand why). Next time, Calder heeded the starter's admonitions and let Perky Parkinson and Nifty Neff break away and waste some much needed breath. But when the gun really did go, Neff had a slight lead and Parkinson just broke ahead of the gun, as well.

Down the stretch they thundered and the rumble they made was fearsome to behold. Several earthworms turned over in their graves, in fright. It is understood, Parkinson all but caught Neff, but his little legs kept twinkling back and forth and carried the portly body right across the finish

OKANAGAN CENTRE TENNIS TEAM IS MATCH WINNER

Win Eight Matches to Kelowna's Three in Inter-Club Games on Centre Courts

Okanagan Centre tennis players proved too strong for the Kelowna club team which journeyed north last Sunday and won by eight matches to three. The Kelowna team contained some members new to tournament play but they enjoyed themselves thoroughly and welcomed the experience.

Kelowna's A and B teams will play home and away games with Summerland on Wednesday, May 24, it is planned, while the club tournament is expected to start here the first week in June.

Following are the Okanagan Centre results with the Centre players being first in each instance:

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Fallow won from S. R. Davis and Miss Sutton, 6-3, 6-3; defeated D. Webster and Mrs. Mowbray, 6-1, 6-1. T. Collinson and Miss D. Gleed lost to S. R. Davis and Miss Sutton, 6-1, 6-3, and won from Webster and Mrs. Mowbray, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. H. Van Ackeren and Miss E. Gleed defeated B. Parfitt and Miss Phillips, 6-2, 6-3, and defeated J. Hammond and Miss Whillis, 6-4, 6-4. S. J. Land and Mrs. Hare defeated Parfitt and Miss Phillips, 6-4, 6-3, and defeated Hammond and Miss Whillis, 6-3, 6-5.

Mrs. Fallow and Mrs. Hare lost to Mrs. Mowbray and Miss Sutton, 6-4, 5-6, 6-2; Misses D. and E. Gleed tied with Misses Phillips and Whillis, 6-2, 2-6.

Fallow and Land won from Davis and Webster, 6-4, 5-6, 6-3; Collinson and Van Ackeren lost to Parfitt and Hammond, 6-5, 6-5.

length, just a stomach-width ahead. Parkinson admitted afterwards that he had contemplated a diving finish as the best chance to win, but had discarded the thought at the last. George Handlen who was quite bitter about losing his dozen to big Charlie DeMara, insinuated with a sneer that Parkinson had taken a dive, anyway.

Neff immediately went to the nearest microphone and melodramatically announced: "It was a great race, Mabel, but I won't be home until it is celebrated." Forthwith, he got into trouble. Parkinson just laid down on the grass and groaned. Calder, with his poker-face showing little of his inner feelings, was heard to mumble: "Gee, and I thought I could run, too."

Calder, by the way, trailed his opponents by a good yard, having been left in his starting holes at the bark of the gun.

Your Gossiper tried to horn in on the race, thinking that his practice gained from running away from those whom he had angered in this column would stand him in good stead. But the boys said "No", emphatically. Parkinson thinks that Eugene Ryan is a swell guy, as he called it a dead heat. But he doesn't think so much of the eyesight of the student who picked him as second and of A. A. Chapman, school principal, who said Neff had won by that much-discussed protuberance.

There has been one result, however, and that is a challenge thrown by Hustling Haskins, the Irsome Insurance Income to Ambling Armstrong, the Gossiper Gossiper. The time and place have not been set, but it might be quite a feature for the Valley schools track meet. Who knows?

"Sailor" Hogan, of Kamloops dropped your Gossiper a line the other day asking for publicity on a prospective ten-round boxing card which he wishes to stage against Curley Patterson, of Seattle. All Hogan and Patterson need now is a promoter to stage the bout in Kelowna. Hogan offers ten per cent of the gate to a charity or hospital. He and Patterson

RUTLAND ROUTS PEACHLAND BY SCORE OF 14-4

Slugging Match Goes to Strong Rutland Team in Seven Innings — Not at Full Strength

Rutland Adanacs had no difficulty in defeating a visiting Peachland team 14-4, at the Rutland field on Sunday afternoon, May 14th. The game was only an exhibition contest, and the visitors did not field their strongest line-up, three regulars Clement, Williamson and A. Miller being absent.

Ekins pitched most of the game for the visitors, but was wild, and on one occasion forced in a run by walking a batter with all the bases loaded. D. Cousins, the "baby" of the Cousins family, took over mound duties in the sixth inning, and fared a little better, but as the game was called in the seventh it was too soon to judge of his ability.

Henry Wostrowski started on the mound for the home team, and held the visitors scoreless for three innings, striking out six men in that period. He eased up a bit in the fourth, with a seven-run lead, and Peachland batters connected for a few sizeable clouts, both Ekins boys and Cousins getting hits, the latter getting a triple in the fourth frame, two runs coming in. They added two more in the fifth on hits by Grogan, Gummow and Don Miller, but Alexander took over in the sixth, and they failed to score 5-6, 6-2; Misses D. and E. Gleed tied with Misses Phillips and Whillis, 6-2, 2-6.

All the Rutland players hit freely in the game, John Holisky getting getting three hits in four times up, two of them for extra bases, while Herb Alexander scored the first home run of the season, in the second inning, a fielder's fumble enabling him to stretch a good double into a homer.

In the third innings a spectacular triple play was pulled by Cousins at third for Peachland, which saved the team from a general rout. With four runs already over the plate in that frame, none out, and three on bases, Ritchey lined the ball right at Cousins. Catching the hot drive he touched third, putting out a second man, and threw to Miller at second to catch the third runner off the bag.

The weather was abnormally hot for so early in the season, and partly due to this and to a late start and desire to connect with the ferry, only seven innings were played.

Batteries for the game were, Peachland—G. Ekins, Cousins and N. Ekins. Rutland—H. Wostrowski, Alexander and Holisky.

Score by innings:
Peachland—0 0 0 2 2 0 0 4
Rutland—0 3 4 3 0 x—14
Umpires—Reith and Bedford.

ROWERS RISE EARLY FOR PRACTISE SPINS

BIG PLANS FOR RIFLE MEET ON JUNE 4, 5 AND 6

Indications Point to First Meet of Rifle Association at Armstrong Being Huge Success

All indications point to the first annual meet of the B.C. Inland Rifle Association at Armstrong, on June 4th, 5th and 6th, proving a decided success. Keen interest is being evinced in the event by riflemen in the area from Kamloops to Penticton, and it is expected that the attendance will reach a figure somewhere between sixty and one hundred, thus approaching the usual average for the provincial meet of the B.C. Rifle Association.

The movement to resuscitate the pre-war Gold Range Rifle Association, of Kamloops, and the Okanagan Rifle Association, both of which held highly successful meets prior to 1914, was set on foot at the annual Gilbey Spey-on foot at the annual in September, 1935, but it made little progress until recently, when several months of preliminary work culminated in a representative organization meeting at Armstrong. Since then many details have been given attention and most of the arrangements for the shoot are now complete.

The program, issued from the temporary office of the Association at Kelowna last week, shows seven individual events at distances from 200 to 1,000 yards, nine extra series at all distances and two team matches, with a prize list totalling $423.50 in cash, besides nine handsome trophies and twenty-seven miniatures and silver spoons.

Donors of trophies and other contributions to the prize list include the provincial government, Lieut.-Governor E. W. Hamber, the city of Kamloops, the city of Armstrong, the municipality of Spallumcheen, the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., Ltd., of Trail, the Vancouver Province, the Vancouver Sun, the Vernon News, and Clyde Stewart, of Fish Lake Resort.

KELOWNA BALL CLUB REVERTS TO NORTHERN LOOP

Rejoins Interior League Consisting of Revelstoke, Kamloops, Salmon Arm and Vernon

After having been connected with the South Okanagan baseball league for the past four years, the Kelowna baseball club has gone back to the northern realm and has rejoined the Interior baseball loop. This summer they will play against Vernon, Salmon Arm, Kamloops and Revelstoke.

The decision was made after Summerland signified its intention of not fielding a team this year and Beaverdel was known to be able to only place a weakened nine on the diamond. Vernon was asked to enter the southern league, but would not do so.

This move on the part of Kelowna has thrown Rutland and Peachland out of gear. Another attempt is being made tonight in The Courier office to keep the South Okanagan league alive, and it may devolve that Winfield, Rutland, Peachland and Summerland, with a possible second team from Kelowna, may form the South Okanagan league.

It is expected Kelowna's first game of its new schedule with the Interior league will be on May 24 in Kelowna against Vernon, immediately after the conclusion of the Gyro sports.

KEN BLACK PLAYS OVER LOCAL LINKS

Pairs With Dan Curell but Chester Owen and Harry Todd Too Hot

Kelowna golfers who were on the course last Thursday afternoon were privileged to witness one of the leading amateur golfers in the province, chunky Ken Black, perform over the Kelowna course.

Black partnered with Dan Curell, who was not on his usual steady game, and this pair was defeated four and two by Chester Owen and Harry Todd in the four ball best ball contest. Owen and Todd were playing a sparkling game and rose to the occasion splendidly.

In the play for the club championship, Harry Todd had a particularly tough match with Harold Johnston, before the latter succumbed on the 19th hole. Dan Curell, 1938 champion, won an easy victory over Bill Dobson, who had to default when he was transferred to Vancouver. Chester Owen plays Serg. A. MacDonald and the winner plays Bob Seath to enter the semi-finals.

Nature gave us the "EDGE"

TRAVELLERS coming to British Columbia have been enthralled by our scenery and climate—and have gone home to tell the world about it. Without a doubt, Nature has blessed us abundantly in this regard.

But our pure mountain water and pleasantly moist climate are priceless for another reason. It seems almost unfair, but there it is—OUR WATER AND CLIMATE ARE THE FINEST IN THE WORLD FOR THE DISTILLING OF REALLY FINE QUALITY LIQUORS.

It is well to remember this when purchasing the UDL brands of Rye Whisky and London Dry Gin, which are, as you know, produced in Vancouver. Don't buy them simply because you want to be loyal to your own province. BUY AND ENJOY UDL LIQUORS BECAUSE, IN COMPARISON WITH ANY MADE ANYWHERE, THEY CAN MORE THAN HOLD THEIR OWN. THEY ARE DECIDEDLY A GOOD BUY IN LIQUOR.

Just naturally good liquors

SAFeway INSTALS VEGETABLE RACKS

Re-arrangement of the Safeway Stores display space and the installation of a modern vegetable show counter has been completed in Kelowna this week and provides a neat, clean appearance. The vegetable rack and the taking out of the window display racks is said to conform with the latest methods of merchandising and brings into this branch of the Safeway Stores in line with other branches in much larger cities.

6 BALLOT FOR FRUIT BOARD

other two members. Then came W. J. Coe's motion that the remuneration remain the same at $3,000 each, but this did not carry, despite the remarks of Roby Robinson, Creston, that W. E. Haskins' legal knowledge saves the board $3,000 or more yearly.

One after another the resolutions fell by the wayside until a new amendment by Percy French, Vernon and W. J. Coe, that $10 per day plus hotel and travelling expenses with the salary not to exceed $3,000 was carried.

R. G. Rutherford & Co. received overwhelming support for the position of auditor in a vote against Robert Cheyne, chartered accountant, Kelowna.

Most of Friday's meeting was taken up with the report of W. E. Haskins, board chairman, on the board's views regarding central selling, the necessity of having a full-time board and a report on the difficulties which confronted the marketing setup last year. A full report of Mr. Haskins' speech is contained on Page 3 of this issue.

At the conclusion of his main address, Mr. Haskins elaborated on his recent trip to Ottawa endeavoring to obtain federal legislation included in Hon. J. G. Gardiner's agricultural legislation.

"If we had been successful at Ottawa we could have set up a complete central selling scheme and clothe the present boards with authority to control inter-provincial and export trade," declared Mr. Haskins. "But we are against setting up a central selling agency on a voluntary basis or on purely provincial legislation."

This statement was later, clarified when a discussion arose as to the name of central selling, led by G. J. Fraser, Osoyoos. This will not be a complete central selling scheme and if it falls under the name central selling then it may mean that full central selling may never become an accomplished fact.

Fruit Board's Duties

From late in the morning until well on in the afternoon, delegates argued concerning the proposed duties of the fruit board and the central selling agency. In the final analysis the delegates agreed that the duties of the board would be to interpret the act to the agency set up, as outlined in the plan of the central selling committee, and to bring in regulations required from time to time and to see that these regulations are enforced.

This resolution was the final result of a question asked at the outset by E. Snowsall, who enquired: "What are the duties of the board outside Tree Fruits Ltd.?"

Until last full board activities occupied the full time of the members Mr. Haskins explained, and explained many of the details which the board must work out, such as determining the volume to be marketed on the prairies, and on the export markets, the sizes and grades for the domestic market. He also propounded on his work of composing two tentative acts for the Dominion legislation, which the Canadian Chamber of Agriculture failed to have introduced at this session of Parliament.

"Couldn't the central selling agency am going to take the growers' money to be a yes man for the agency, you're crazy."

Mr. Haskins, at another stage, explained that the board cannot delegate its powers to any other group. G. A. Barrat declared that when a complete central selling control is realized under legislation which cannot be "kicked over" by the courts, then there will be no need for the board as it is set up today.

Mr. Haskins considered that a large part of the statistical work might be taken over by the agency but not the members' own work.

A. K. Loyd, who presided as chairman of the meeting, stated that the central selling committee had considered the duties for the central selling agency would be decided by the board of governors, or directors, of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd. George Mabey, Oliver, considered the success of the agency scheme would depend on the amount of cooperation between the fruit board and the governors of Tree Fruits Ltd.

To this, Mr. Haskins replied that the fruit board must accept the responsibility of success or failure of the new scheme and therefore must have the authority.

"We thought that the board would act as umpire to determine if the requests of the agency could be applied," was A. K. Loyd's statement from the central selling plan committee. D. M. Rattray, another member of that committee, said it was thought that peculiar situations could be handled better under a central selling setup. "You are correct under a complete central selling setup," replied O. W. Hembling.

Manager Important

"The general manager is to be the important man in the new setup and we are trying to escape from the possibility of depending on three inexperienced growers," was A. G. Desbrisay's contribution.

Archie Lawson of Grand Forks was still not in accord with the central selling plan as he thought it might endanger the act. He did not like the dictatorship which he felt would go hand in hand with the general manager's position.

"There is no use being like an ostrich and sticking your head in the sand regarding this central selling," commented W. J. Coe, Winfield. "We have the three large shipping groups in, but there are many outside who can upset the scheme and we have no power to force them in."

"To the Oliver growers, central selling means a centralized selling agency controlled by the growers," said George Mabey.

After the luncheon recess Chairman Loyd gave a resume of the central selling committee's plan and stated that committee had been divided on the subject of the powers possible under the act. The decision as to the control of the crop would be left to the general control and judge the volume of the crop to be marketed?" queried W. Steel-Naramata.

Mr. Haskins' reply was in the negative, and he insisted: "If you think I am manager, Mr. Loyd had felt and the board would be the legal link between the marketing legislation and the agency. It would not be ideal, but would be a step in the right direction. "It is up to the growers to support this plan and get behind us. It is a move in the right direction," supplied Mr. Snowsall.

A. T. Howe, veteran Vernon grower, gave a review of the methods under which the fruit industry have been operating, in growers turning over their produce to the shippers. The shippers have been operating, as well, under a system which prevents them from doing anything better for the growers, he felt. He was familiar with the practices of sweetening the packs and allowing unjust claims, simply because of severe competition.

He warned that unless the delegates are careful they will have a duplication of powers. "We are the employers and should say what the fruit board shall do," he declared. "In the valley there are many key men who have been identified with the industry for twenty years. They have been a great asset to the valley and if half a dozen of these key men were wiped out the valley would be in a rotten condition."

He indicated doubt that the general manager, if he was a man without previous experience in the Okanagan, would be in a hopeless position and certainly would have to depend on these key men.

R. W. Ramsay Thought

R. W. Ramsay wished that the fruit board would be continued for another year at the same remuneration and from the shipping groups appoint the most outstanding men. With the three fruit board men and one shipper each from the main shipping organizations, plus the B.C.F.G.A. president, a committee of seven men would be formed and they could pick the general manager, from among their number, Mr. Ramsay thought.

This move did not meet with favor, however, and the duties of the board are quoted earlier in this story finally carried. In effect this resolution meant that the fruit board would be divorced from the duties of merchandising the crop.

W. J. Coe and George Mabey had exchanged many arguments during the day and it was at this point while Mr. Coe was pointing out the multitudinous tasks of the board that Mabey interrupted with a soft voice remark: "Say that louder, I can take a slum!"

Mr. Coe, thinking the remark was meant for him, replied: "All they (fruit board) are afraid of is they will lose their jobs," replied Mr. Mabey.

C. S. Squires and R. W. Ramsay argued against the resolution as the powers of the board are shown in the marketing act scheme, but the general meeting favored the passage.

Lot of Bologna

Looking back to Mr. Haskins' earlier remarks regarding the impossibility of an orchardist dividing his time between fruit board duties and his orchard, Mr. French thought this a "lot of bologna." "There is no reason," he said, "why the paid man should be chairman, and there is no reason for three full time men on the board."

Following his nomination Mr. French stated he had not intended to allow his name to stand but he believed the growers do want an election and regardless of the result whatever the growers wished would be all right with him. He was glad that not more than five had been nominated as he believed one member of the board should remain because of his expert knowledge. He trusted the first orchard owner in the Okanagan and every dollar he possessed is invested in the fruit industry. Mr. French continued, "anything he possibly can do for the industry he would do."

George Mabey expressed the wish that the election would be expedited with all possible speed. Before conclusion of the meeting, Mabey and H. H. Armstrong, through the passage of a resolution asking for reduction of the board to a sage to the people of the Okanagan. Rev. C. E. Davis, rector of St. Michael and All Angels' church, Kelowna, will lead a hymn, with accompaniment by the boys' band, followed by a short prayer.

Mrs. MacPherson will then step forward to officially christen the craft, M.S. Pendozi and the launching will take place.

D. C. Paterson, Kelowna Board of Trade president, will present Mrs. MacPherson with a sterling silver rose bowl, suitably engraved, as a memento of the launching.

Provincial police cooperation has been assured for traffic protection, as parking will be a major problem in that section.

Preceding the launching ceremonies, a luncheon will be held by the board of trade at the Royal Anne hotel, at which representatives of civic and governmental bodies from all parts of the Interior are expected to attend, besides many visiting board of trade representatives. All members of the Kelowna board are invited to attend this banquet and it is hoped that a large representative group will be present.

President D. C. Paterson will preside at the banquet and will extend an official welcome to the many visitors. Hon. F. M. MacPherson will speak shortly and Mayor O. L. Jones will move an official vote of thanks to the minister and his government for the building of the new ferry.

If time permits, Mayor C. E. Scanlan, Kamloops; Mayor H. Bowman, Vernon; Reeve W. G. Wilkins, Penticton; Capt. C. R. Bull, M.L.A. for South Okanagan; Hon. K. C. MacDonald, minister of agriculture; C. H. Tupper, M.L.A. for Similkameen and R. H. Carson, M.L.A. for Kamloops will say a few words, although it is doubtful if all these speakers will be accommodated. The banquet program must be concluded by 2:30 o'clock.

While the board of trade is in session, Mrs. D. C. Paterson will preside over a luncheon tendered to Mrs. F. M. MacPherson, Mrs. W. J. Knox, Mrs. C. R. Bull, Mrs. O. L. Jones, Mrs. G. E. Brown and any of the wives of members of the legislature who are attending the function.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

C. P. R. PURCHASE
Kelowna, B.C., May 17th, 1939.
To the Editor,
The Kelowna Courier.

Dear Sir:
Thank you for giving me space in your valuable paper. I would like to express my opinion re the purchase of the property known as the C.P.R. Wharf at the west end of Bernard Avenue by the City of Kelowna. While I would like to see this property in the hands of the City and the street widened out and beautified, under the circumstances I cannot support the proposal of the Council for the following reasons:

First. This property could be purchased in a very short time at a fraction of the cost by waiting until the C.P.R. want to dispose of it.

Second. The proposal is being pushed by the taxpayers at the west end of Bernard Avenue to get the city Council to spend money to enhance the value of their property, and it was the efforts of this same group that rushed the Zoning Bylaw through and caused the City to get tangled up in a lawsuit. If the City wins the case and the authorities remove the building, the result will be to depreciate the value of property in that district.

Third. The original intention of the City was to purchase the property to protect the value of properties within the business zone and to confine the business area within reasonable limits. Since the original proposal has been voiced to the public, there has been representation made to the Council to have a City Hall built on the property and the taxpayers have been canvassed by way of petition.

Therefore it is imperative that the situation be clarified and the present Council make their position clear to the voters, in this respect: Is the City buying the property for the purchase originally intended, or has pressure by west end property holders forced the hand of the Council to place the situation under dispute at the present time?

Further it is doubtful if the Council can give title to the property if and when the Government will lift the "Caveat" now registered against the property.

Where and how are the priority claims being adjusted?

Are these being used to have a City Hall erected?

Let the Council give their views. The purchase of the property for expansion of the City Park is advantageous, but it is undesirable and unaffordable for a City Hall site, further the City has on hand and has purchased property previously for public buildings, in the present Police Station site, where parking space can be provided, an utter impossibility if the City Hall were to be erected on the C.P.R. property.

Therefore taxpayers are urged to study this project well before casting their votes because it is my opinion that the City will be able to take care of the building of a City Hall in a few years without having to borrow the money.

TAXPAYER
Editor's Note: Many of the questions raised by "Taxpayer" are answered in an interview with His Worship Mayor Jones which The Courier carries in this issue.

This subject was referred to the executive of the B.C. F.G.A. This executive was also asked to press for legislation which would back up the central selling plan.

One of the final questions asked was the method of marketing ballots and if all three names have to be voted on. No direct answer was forthcoming then, but it has been learned since that there is no regulation at the present which requires all three votes recorded to make the ballot valid.

Predecessors of the M.S. Pendozi

Both the immediate predecessors of the Pendozi, which will be launched today, were the last word when they were put on the run between Kelowna and Westbank, but the growth of the Okanagan and the consequent increase in traffic soon taxed their accommodation to the limit. The present ferry, nicknamed the "Holdup," shown at the top, was launched eleven years ago and provided efficient service for some years. Latterly, however, it has been unable to handle the traffic or give the service demanded. Consequently, it will be replaced by the Pendozi when the new craft is ready for the run.

5 FRUIT GROWERS

a number of growers believed that the Associated was making an attempt to corral the central selling scheme, and he wished the directors to understand that this would be impossible, even though he was sure such an attempt was not being made, as four of these houses, two through the Associated Growers, one through the Creston Co-op., and one he was not sure of. Other speakers deprecated such rumors regarding the Associated activity and expressed confidence that no such move was ever contemplated.

On the motion of George Mabey and W. B. Sanderson, Peachland, the directors of the B.C.F.G.A. urged on the board of governors the necessity of prosecuting the central selling scheme to the best of its ability.

Haskins Takes Exception

One of the highlights of the Saturday session came just at noon, when W. E. Haskins took strong exception to the statements made in the Vancouver Province concerning the Friday meeting, when he made his lengthy speech propounding the fruit board stand on central selling.

Just prior to his appearance at the meeting, he had informed the Vancouver Province representative, that "I will sue the Province if they do not retract that statement." Later, he threatened to sue the Kelowna correspondent of the Province, as well.

Mr. Haskins, at the meeting, objected first to the heading on the Province article, which read "Central Plan Delay Urged."

"There has been a tremendous misunderstanding in what the board is supposed to have said on this subject," Mr. Haskins declared. "We are not urging a delay and this article does not interpret what we are saying."

"The board members do not urge a delay of any kind in carrying into effect the wishes of the central selling plans committee and the growers as expressed in their recent ballot. The board supports and urges the immediate carrying into effect of the plans of the plans committee and the wishes of the growers."

He quoted from a paragraph of his typewritten speech, which read "That the wishes of the growers for central selling as expressed by their ballot be carried into effect immediately to the greatest possible extent under the existing circumstances." He claimed that the word "immediately" left no doubt as to the board's intentions.

Why didn't you say that in the first place, Mr. Haskins, demanded George Mabey of Oliver.

"My statement, read before the delegates said 'immediately to the greatest possible extent' and I repeat that now," retorted Mr. Haskins.

"You then told us that voluntary co-operation is an impossible goal. I naturally came to the same conclusion as the press has taken," replied Mr. Mabey.

"The impression at the Glenora meeting was that the board wanted to delay the scheme," added E. Snowball, Glenora.

After a lengthy discussion, A. K. Lloyd, chairman, suggested that the discussion was getting the delegates nowhere.

"Do you agree now, after my statements this morning, that the fruit board did not mean to delay any action in putting into effect the central selling plan upon which the growers balloted, queried Mr. Haskins. "If any of you still do, let's hear from him."

Silence reigned and Mr. Haskins accepted this to mean that the delegates were now assured that the board did not mean to urge delay.

Some discussion ensued during the Saturday session regarding the situation of Grand Forks, Kootenay and Creston delegates. Only one member is allowed on the executive from this wide area and Grand Forks has never unity of acquiring this site at the small figure necessary at the present time. If the opportunity is lost it will be just too bad for the city in the future. It is only through the present three-cornered deal that the city is able to obtain the property for about $2,500.00.

"Is there any prospect of this property being allowed to go for arrears of taxes?" the reporter asked. "None whatever. The C.P.R. could obtain a price far in excess of the proposed cost to the city from private parties."

"Is it not understood in the deal between the province and the city that the province for the northern half of the C.P.R. property will give the city $1,000 and the Bernard Avenue public works lot with a clear title?"

"Yes. The council considers this one of the advantageous phrases of the whole deal. The Bernard Avenue lot title is a complicated one and would cost almost a thousand dollars to straighten out. The government now has a caveat against it but that does not concern us because the government has agreed to give the city a clear title to that property and we can then immediately resell it to A. C. Bennett for $6,200.00."

"We understand that if this property is purchased, the idea is to extend the city park to include this property and to beautify it. Is this correct?"

"Yes. It is true the city was approached to consider the advisability of building a city hall on the site but the council was of the opinion that such a proposal could not be permitted to interfere with or delay the present purchase bylaw and the matter was filed. If any person is fearful that a city hall will be built at once, I would point out that this property is not being purchased for that purpose."

Further, there will be a vote on any city hall proposal when the time comes. The council feels that the property when acquired should be beautified in keeping with its strategic position adjacent to the park and visible to all who cross the lake by the ferry as well as all those who are on Bernard Avenue in the business district.

The position of the council is clear as the bylaw has been read three times and no member has voted against it.

BIG GOLF PLAY ON SATURDAY

Four cups and many prizes will be competed for including the McKean cup for the open champion ship, Trench trophy for handicap championship, Jones cup for open seniors and Barton cup for handicap seniors. Play will commence in the morning and continue throughout the day and it is anticipated a big entry list will be on hand.

had representation on the executive body.

Directors of the B.C.F.G.A. therefore voted in C. S. Squires of Robson on the executive and Col. Fred Lister of Creston on the board of governors.

Archie Lawson, Grand Forks representative will be asked to sit in on executive meetings whenever convenient.

Archie Lawson also introduced the subject of Okanagan confined shipments on the Trail market. Difficulties of controlling the Trail market, which has so many means of entrance, were explained by Mr. Haskins and it was finally decided this subject would be referred to the incoming fruit board for further investigation with the hope that some action would be taken.

The session concluded with a short discussion on voting on a per box or an average basis, but the directors decided in favor of remaining with the democratic method of one vote for every grower who can be registered under the act.

he returned to the States, where he is said to have been carrying out an extensive campaign.

More recently, Serg. A. Macdonald received a threatening letter from an anonymous person believed to be a German living in Kelowna. The sergeant has not taken the letter seriously for at first he thought it was from a practical joker. It was poorly written with shaky, scrawly letters and without any attempt at capitalization or punctuation.

It is understood that Dominion authorities have organized a detailed enquiry into the propaganda methods of pro-Nazi Germans living in Canada and that the R.C.M.P. have been working along these lines for some time.

In order that The Courier readers may determine for themselves how serious was the threat of the anonymous letter writer, the following is the context of the letter, as it was written, with no attempt to punctuate or capitalize:

3 FERRY HISTORY

vice was made by Aeneas and David McDougall, who provided a scow 16 feet long and 10 or 12 feet wide, three planks deep, decked on top, with posts and rails on the sides and loose rails at the ends for loading and unloading horses. The seams were caulked with any available materials, such as rags or pieces of gunny sack. The motive power was man or woman or both. A deck plank was removed at one end and the human motors sat with their legs dangling in the hole. Heavy pine sweeps were operated in those pins on the edge of the barge, which could carry three heavy horses or five pack horses—sometimes. To announce the approach of this imposing craft, Fred Gillard performed from time to time upon a cow horn, the frequency and vigor of his blasts being in proportion to the libations he had paid to Bacchus.

After the Granite Creek excitement joined the limbo of other mining booms, the scow was used very little except for occasional transit of the pack horses of an add hunting or prospecting party. David McDougall, who lived at Duck Lake, soon had enough of the ferry business and left it to Aeneas, who resided about four miles from Siwash point, up in the mountains. The latter paid little heed to the ferry and frequently could not be found to operate it, departing at times for a hunting trip of two or three weeks duration and leaving no one to look after the ferry work. In such cases the unfortunate traveller had the alternative of swimming his horses across the lake, if he could find some one that had a row boat, the procedure then being for one man to row and the other to sit in the stern and tow the horse by a rope. At times the horse became excited and tried to clamber into the boat and then there were some hectic moments spent in dissuading the animal from its purpose.

The Wanderer

During the summer of 1901 Capt. L. A. Hayman worked for the late W. L. D'Aeth, who had a ranch on the west side of the lake about three miles south of Siwash Point. D'Aeth owned a small steamer, the "Wanderer," some 40 feet in length, which had been built by N. H. Caesar, now of Okanagan Centre, and he also acquired the old McDougall scow. With this equipment a ferry service of sorts was operated by Capt. Hayman, to whose interesting and characteristically humorous reminiscences The Courier is indebted for much assistance in preparation of this early marine history. A mixture of success and failure crowned his efforts, with experiences running the whole gamut between comedy and near tragedy. Sometimes, when a brisk breeze started, the scow would commence to fill, in which case the crew had to act with swift decision, slipping out the end rails and letting loose any horses aboard. As the barge began to sink, the horses would strike out for shore, but more often than not their course was back to the starting point instead of towards the direction in which the ferry was headed. All the crew could do was to sit on the side rails and let the craft drift until she fetched up against the shore somewhere, and then followed the work of bailing her out and caulking the seams with any old rags or other material

Seventeenth Annual Play by Rutland Scouts and Cubs Enjoyed

Packed Hall Sees Varied Program of Songs and Plays by Energetic Scout Groups

The First Rutland Troop of Boy Scouts, and the Wolf Cub Pack presented their 17th annual entertainment to a packed hall at Rutland on Friday evening, May 12th. The audience numbered almost 300, and the varied program was well received. Included in the program were three one-act plays, "Doing Their Best," a short play by the Wolf Cubs, and two plays by group of scouts, "A Finance for Fanny" and "Who Gets the Car Tonight." Both plays by the scouts were comedies, and created much merriment. The latter play had added comedy with the portrayal of two feminine roles by scouts.

The singing and guitar playing of Scout Frank Stolz was again an enjoyable feature and an Amateur Hour supervised by "Major Blowes," and sponsored by the "Chisler Motor Corporation" provided a great deal of hilarity. The various contestants took off a number of well-known radio performers. "Eddy Nelson" sang "Short-nin' Bread," "Jack Benny" tried, unsuccessfully to play "The Bee" and "Kate Schmidt" sang a few bars of "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" before getting the "gong."

After the concert there was a pleasant dance from 10.30 to 1.30 a.m., with music supplied by Chas. Pettman's orchestra. Ladies of the Scout Association sold refreshments during the dance, and the Wolf Cubs augmented their funds by selling candy during the concert. The net proceeds of the concert and dance are to be used to assist with transportation of members of the troop to Revelstoke on Sunday, May 28th, to see the King and Queen. At the present time the Scout Troop has an enrollment of 42, and the Wolf Cubs number 20.

Occasion was taken during the evening to have District Commissioner E. C. Weddell of Kelowna present a number of badges to Scouts and Cubs. Principal item among these was the presentation of the Grade "C" All Round Cords to Patrol Leader Basil Bond, awarded to King's Scouts who have earned 18 proficiency badges.

Mrs. W. F. Schell, who has assisted as accompanist for the Scout concerts for many years past, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers by Cub Nick Husch, and a coral brooch by Troop Leader Dennis Reid on behalf of the Troop and Pack.

Following is the concert program in detail:

ESSENTIAL FACTS ABOUT SCIENTIFIC FERTILIZATION

Don't buy a fertilizer just because it is a fertilizer and expect it to give a maximum increase of better-grade crops; it may not be the correct fertilizer for your purpose.

Varying soils will require varying proportions of the best standard fertilizers to give the greatest amount of nourishment. This can best be determined by soil experts. When Elephant Brand Fertilizers are recommended you are certain to obtain superior chemicals which are imperative to profitable fertilizing programs. Another Elephant Brand product is Mono-Calcium Phosphate, a highly concentrated and purified mineral health food for all classes of live stock, especially recommended for dairy cows.

Backache — Kidney Pains

Poison causes pain. When you have pains in the back, lumbago or rheumatic pains you may be suspicious of the kidneys. They may be slow and sluggish in removing uric acid poisons from the blood. Along with inactivity of the kidneys you usually find the liver torpid and the bowels irregular. You can clear up this whole condition by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. For fifty years this popular medicine has proven its outstanding efficiency as a regulator of these vital organs.

Dr. Robert Mathison

This week, in Vancouver, one of Kelowna's respected citizens of many years' standing will be honored by the Vancouver Board of Trade. The Vancouver board is gathering to pay its respects to an old landmark of that terminal city, the Vancouver Hotel, which will be closed for any further purpose this month. The Vancouver Hotel has been a tradition for the coast city and the board of trade members feel that a banquet should be tendered to commemorate the many pleasing functions held within its confines.

For the occasion, one of the chief guest speakers will be Dr. Robert Mathison, who is the only surviving charter member of the Vancouver board. Dr. Mathison is one of British Columbia's pioneers and despite his advancing years remains as active as many a man many years his junior. He is small of stature, his hair is snow white now, but his brain remains keenly active and his memory for dates and names is practically as fine as it was in years gone by.

Although dentistry has been the profession practiced by Dr. Mathison for the past quarter century, he was first interested in the printing game and was one of the first printers to set up in business on the British Columbia coast. He has travelled far and has a wealth of knowledge of conditions and people in many parts.

Bob Mathison, as he is known to his many friends, was born at Hamilton, Ont., on July 26, 1865, and attended the public and high schools of London, Toronto and Belleville, Ont. In 1882, he first became acquainted with the printing trade in the composing rooms of the Belleville Daily Ontario, and later went to Toronto to serve in his trade under the "Prince of Printers," George McKay.

But the call of the far west attracted young Bob and he packed his extra shirt in a suitcase and set forth for Grenville, as Vancouver was then known, arriving there on March 23, 1886. That was the year of the "Big Fire" which devastated the entire townsite of Granville in June, 1886.

His first job in Granville was on the Vancouver Weekly Herald, published by William Brown. He was the third printer to reach the coast, being preceded by R. D. Harkness, formerly of Picton, Ont., home of The Courier, and J. M. Wright of Ottawa.

Following the disastrous fire, Bob Mathison set up and printed the first copy of the Herald in the office of the British Columbian at New Westminster.

The following month he set up a printing establishment of his own on Hastings street, on the lot on which the Morris tobacco store now stands. In August, 1890, he sold out to Evans & Hastings, and in 1893, following a severe illness, he moved to Okanagan Falls, where for a few months he published the Okanagan Mining Review for Henderson & Megaw of the Vernon News, who had contracted with the townsite company for the publication of a mining review.

In these days it was quite a trip down from Vernon to Okanagan Falls. His printing machinery went from Vernon to Okanagan Landing, where it was loaded on a steamer and taken to Penticton. Team and wagon were used to haul the machinery to the head of Skaha lake, where it was loaded on a scow.

Down Skaha lake to Okanagan Falls, Bob Mathison did not accompany the machinery on the scow but obtained a flat-bottom rowboat, hoisted a blanket as a sail and cruised merrily down. The Okanagan sunshine proved a good cure for Bob Mathison and in 1894 he went to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where he studied dentistry, graduating from the University of Pennsylvania in 1897.

He first set up a practice in Kamloops on his return to British Columbia, but this was only temporary as he moved to Greenwood, where he spent nine years. It took two days to travel by stage from Penticton to Greenwood and eight days for his freight to get through.

After his stay in the boundary country, Bob Mathison returned to the Okanagan and located temporarily at Summerland and Penticton before coming to Kelowna in 1908. His first office was in the Rowcliffe Block, now occupied by the New Moon Cafe, and in 1913 he moved to the new Willis block at the corner of Pender and Bernard, where he is still located. Up to 1912 he made a trip every three months to Summerland to tend to his patients there.

It was in 1898 in Vancouver that he married Miss Martha McIntyre, of Goderich, Ont. Mrs. Mathison died in 1928. They had no family.

Besides joining the board of trade in Vancouver when it was inaugurated, Dr. Mathison was an original member of the old volunteer fire brigade in Granville. When the typographical union was formed at the coast he became a member and has been with the union continuously for the past forty years.

In Kelowna he has been an enthusiastic member of the Rotary Club but has not interested himself in other organizations for many years. His main hobby has been his garden. You will see him on Bernard avenue peddling his bicycle to and from his office every day waving cheerily to his many friends.

As he is so closely acquainted with the origin of Vancouver, Dr. Mathison has always taken a keen interest in the progress of B.C.'s interior city. He can tell you of the tree-strewn site of "Old Vancouver" in the '30s and show you pictures of the virgin land where the big C.P.R. dock now stands. He can remember names and tell you of the old-time community and the early days of the coast.

Dr. Mathison departed for Vancouver on Sunday last and addressed the Vancouver Board of Trade at the Hotel Vancouver on May 17. He was a welcome delivery as the board is a link between the business and professional community and the people of the battle and battle.

DOMINION RULER TO COME HERE TO VISIT ELKS

Dominion Grand Exalted Ruler of B.P.O.E. Will Spend Three Days in Valley Next Week

John Varchanek, of Edinburgh, Dominion Grand Exalted Ruler of ELKs, will visit in the Okanagan Valley next week for three days. He will be conducted on his official visit to Vernon, Kelowna and Oliver, led by District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Charles E. Friend of Kelowna.

Mr. Varchanek will visit the Kelowna lodge first on Monday, May 22, will visit Vernon on Tuesday and then attend ceremonies at Oliver on Empire Day, Wednesday, May 24.

He will have to leave immediately for Calgary where he will be present at the King and Queen.

Several lakes near Biggs and other places were artificial pools providing water for ritual purposes and also a place to float model boats used in religious processions.

Scout Commissioner's Corner

I should like to know definitely by the end of this week how many Scouts and Cubs from Kelowna and District are planning to go to Revelstoke either by train or by car on Sunday the 28th instant to see their King and Queen. The Troops at East Kelowna and Westbank, as well as the Pack at the latter point, are not functioning at the moment through lack of Leaders but if any of their former Scouts or Cubs have still got their uniforms and would like to come with us, they are very welcome.

It was a pleasure to see such a good and enthusiastic audience present at the annual entertainment of the Rutland Troop and Pack on Friday evening last and we do hope that the Kelowna Troop will be similarly favored on Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. There is a tremendous lot of work and worry in putting on one of these affairs, especially for the Leaders, and in view of the great difficulty we are constantly facing in finding Leaders we do so wish to have the few we have got encouraged when ever it is possible for us to so lend them a hand. The Troop's annual entertainment is one such occasion and it is also the one occasion in the year at which the Troop asks for any financial assistance for itself from the public. It should also be a rallying time for all those resident locally of the hundreds of young men who in the past twenty-seven years as boys have been members of the 1st Kelownas.

We hope to hold the delayed annual meeting of the Kelowna Local Association shortly after the entertainment and shall be giving further notice of the time and place. All that we have said of the entertainment applies equally to this meeting.

By WILLSON WOODSIDE

Mr. Woodside is writing exclusively for a group of fifteen Canadian weekly lies. His copy will be forwarded by air mail to ensure it reaching Courier readers at the earliest possible moment. His articles should be well worth watching for.

At May 31 B.C. Fruit Board figures revealed only 46,223 boxes of apples remained to be shipped from the Okanagan as against 117,520 boxes at the same time last year. These are mostly Wenatchee totalling 31,993 boxes. There are 108 boxes of McIntosh to be disposed of along with three boxes of Rome, 8,049 boxes of Stayman, 2,421 boxes of late sundries and 2,934 boxes of Newtowns.

Winston Churchill, who had the job of supplying the British forces in 1917-18 shows in his "World Crisis" how armies of hundreds of tanks melted away in a few days of attack to a bare couple of dozen. And the British air force had to be almost completely replaced every month of 1918. If Germany and Italy gambled their forces on a lightning blow and it failed, as it surely would, where would they get the materials with which to continue the struggle? They would be blockaded by sea from the very beginning by an Anglo-French navy power four times as great as theirs. Nor is it to be thought that because they have succeeded in cowing the Danubian nations they can find sufficient supplies here in war-time. The region only offers a bauxite (for aluminium) and food in any quantity. In the event of proper payment the Axis Powers would have to conquer and garrison the whole territory and squeeze out their materials by force. Germany might remember her vain attempts to do this in the Ukraine in 1918. But Germany doesn't seem to have any memory.

Fighting Opium Evil
The Chinese government has unanimously decided that, despite the present war, every effort must be made to exterminate the opium evil throughout China. The spokesman of the executive Yuan revealed the cabinet approved a program for the complete suppression of opium in Szechuen province during 1939.

2 HASKINS URGES

great earnestness and not for the purpose of bolstering an argument, that the best work I have ever done during my five years term of office as chairman of the Board, has been the result of some thought that has come to me outside the office at some odd moment. This I attribute to the fact that my sole occupation and interest has been the work of the Board. I most earnestly direct your attention to this matter, as I cannot believe that any person operating his own fruit farm can so divorce his mind from his own affairs as a farmer as to leave it free to think of the many problems which must confront any member of the Board.

In addition to the aspect of the work I have just mentioned, there is also the need for acquiring day to day information as facts upon which to base a decision as a Board member. My experience has shown me that the regulations passed by the Board require a careful consideration of many divergent facts and factors. How can you believe that a person whose mind is occupied with earning his own living, can or will neglect his own interests to study those of others sufficiently to acquire the necessary facts on which to base his decisions.

If you decide that the selling agency you are about to establish should take over from the Board some part of the work it has done in the past, even so someone must be employed by that agency to do such work. To think otherwise is to decide that the Board members have in the past been idle. This I assure you is not so.

If the Board work, by reason of the new organization, becomes less, I offer for your most careful consideration the suggestion that the Board members be employed by the selling agency to perform the work so taken over by it, so that they may have that day to day experience so necessary to learn the facts on which their important decisions must be based. It is times like these that try the mettle of men. You are gathered here because you have been chosen by those who cannot themselves attend to represent their interests. But you, rather than some other person, have been chosen because those who elected you and endowed you with this responsibility believed you were the best persons in their community to exercise the tremendous authority with which you are now clothed, and to bear the heavy responsibility which rests upon your shoulders on this historic and exceptionally important occasion.

It is one of the weaknesses of a democratic system that it tends to drag down the intellect of thinking men to the level of prejudice and emotion. It should be left to little minds to pandering to prejudice, and your decisions should rest entirely on cold reason. You must divorce your minds from any popular clamour, and from any personal or sectional considerations, because the result of your deliberations will affect the livelihood of 2,500 of your fellow fruit growers.

Before you can decide what you will do with respect to the Board, you must discuss what will be done with respect to central selling.

The growers, by their vote, have very definitely indicated their desire for a central selling scheme, and you are of that opinion too or you would not otherwise be here. All of the Board members are, of course, of the same opinion.

There has been some misunderstanding with respect to some things that have been said at meetings recently by Board members, and before I continue my remarks with respect to central selling, this should be very definitely cleared up.

The present agitation for central selling began its public appearance by the publication of three statements by the individual Board members made in the Valley press. These statements were made by the Board members individually, and because they were made at a week-end during the Christmas holidays, they were made by the Board members without any consultation amongst themselves, and were published in the Valley press in the issue of December 29th. One of the questions asked by the editor of the paper was, "Has your experience indicated any change should be made in the system of selling?" The Board members all in their replies advocated central selling. This was a month before the convention. The resolution for Central Selling was drawn in the Board office by Board members and both Mr. Burrat and Mr. Hembling have for many years publicly and privately advocated central selling.

How then can anyone seriously believe that any Board member is opposing the setting up of a central selling plan?

We all wish it to be clearly understood that no one can be more eager for the establishment of a complete central selling scheme than the present Board members.

Owing to my absence in Ottawa, and to the necessity of attending to other matters since my return, I have personally attended only the meetings at Summerland and at Penticton and at those meetings other Board members and myself have expressed our opinion of what we think ought to be done at this stage. We felt this to be our duty, and I today feel it to be my duty to express to you our thoughts with respect to this matter.

We have no way of knowing what your decision will be, nor have we any authority with respect to the matter. The responsibility is yours entirely, but we are extremely anxious that care should be taken to establish central selling on a firm foundation. We feel that owing to circumstances as they exist today any effort to establish a complete and permanent central selling organization, even for the sale of only the domestic part of the crop at this particular time is fraught with the gravest danger.

I repeat again, that it is times like these that try the mettle of men, and that you must base your decision on the logic suitable to the circumstances.

as you find them, and notwithstanding the expectation of many growers that your deliberations will result in a complete and permanent central selling arrangement, you must have the courage to establish a temporary arrangement, if you come to the conclusion that for this year that would be best.

Broadly speaking, there are two foundations on which you might build a central selling organization; one is a voluntary plan and the other is a legislative plan. Board members have taken the occasion at the meetings recently held to advise against any attempt to set up a voluntary scheme. We believe that the votes recently cast by the growers were cast under the impression that any scheme to be set up would be set up under the authority of legislation. The history of voluntary organizations in this Valley, and throughout Canada, has convinced all those having a knowledge of marketing that voluntary schemes are not the answer to our problem.

I, therefore, on behalf of the other Board members, as well as myself, urge you most earnestly not to consider a central selling plan based upon voluntary effort.

If you decide not to consider a central selling plan based upon voluntary effort you must then carefully consider whether the existing legislation is a satisfactory foundation on which to build a permanent central selling structure.

So that there can be no mistake whatever, I want to say again here that no one could be more anxious for a central selling scheme than the Board members, and that the Board members hope to see the wishes of the growers as expressed by their ballot carried out at the earliest possible date. They believe that steps should be taken now by you to set up a one-desk or central selling scheme for the sale of this year's crop, as fully as it is possible to do at this time.

It is their faith in the advantages of central selling which make them anxious to offer advice as to what should be done this year, because they fear that if we do not establish central selling on a proper foundation it will fail to achieve the maximum results possible under that system.

Our only anxiety is to point out to you the obstacles due to existing circumstances, and to urge you to set up something less than a complete selling organization, even at the expense of disappointing some grower opinion, if you decide that would be the wisest course.

As you know, I recently attended a conference of agricultural interests representing every province in Canada, and presented a request to the Federal Government for marketing legislation. There is no doubt in my mind that the request will not be granted this year, nor can I hold out any hope that it will be granted at all by the present government.

I prepared for that conference two marketing acts, and these were both accepted by the conference and presented to the government. If either of those acts had been passed by the Federal government, central selling could have been established on a firm legislative foundation immediately.

Not having any hope of such federal legislation, we must then examine our legislative position under the present provincial act.

Under the Act and the Scheme, the Board has power to designate the agency through which the product may be marketed. I have expressed the opinion that the legislation of the entire product under the jurisdiction of the Board, even although part of the product may be dealt with in interprovincial or export trade, I am prepared to argue that point in any court. However, it is known that opinion has been expressed by other solicitors to the contrary. There is no way of determining which is the correct opinion without a reference to the courts, and for this reason the Board members feel that it would be unwise to establish a central selling plan resting entirely on this legislative foundation until that question has been before the courts and definitely settled. There are also certain other matters with respect to the present act which should be strengthened by amendments to the act.

If a central selling plan is set up, and we depend entirely on an order of the Board designating it as the sole agency, there is no assurance whatever that the order will be attacked, and there can be no assurance that if it is attacked, the courts will not declare such an order invalid. If this should happen in the middle of the marketing season, it would create such confusion that markets would be seriously affected, and no doubt other authorities of the Board would also be adversely affected by the decision.

When a permanent central selling organization is set up, many of the present functions of the Board will be assumed by it, and the present selling organizations, both of the Associated and the Independent shippers, will of necessity be greatly curtailed or abandoned.

The Board members feel that it would be unwise until this uncertainty has been settled by a court decision, to attempt to set up a central selling scheme resting entirely on this shaky foundation.

They believe that if an organization is set up on the foundation of the present legislation, and it should be destroyed by an order of the courts, it would seriously disturb the chance of setting up a complete and permanent central selling organization for other years.

What then is the alternative? This is what the Board members suggest:

(1) That the wishes of the growers for Central Selling as expressed by their ballot be carried into effect immediately to the greatest possible extent under the existing circumstances.
(2) That an agreement be entered into between B.C. Tree Fruits Limited and the three major groups of shippers who have signified their willingness to enter into such an agreement and by any other shippers who can be induced to enter into the agreement.
(3) That any districts or shippers or grower-shippers who will not enter into such an agreement be controlled by the regulations of the Board to the fullest possible extent permitted under

PEACHLAND SCHOOLS HOLD FINE TRACK MEET

Donald Miller Takes Senior Title — Glen Ferguson Stars — Electric Service to Delinquent Consumers to be Cut

The annual track meet held by the Peachland public and high school pupils last Thursday afternoon was an interesting display of field work as the youngsters competed for honors in the different events. Donald Miller for the senior class won 28 points to take the lead in the day's contests, with Glen Ferguson and Ruth Fuls in the juniors each getting 26 points. Glen competed in a number of the senior events and won seven more points and had been allowed to count in both would have led in the meet. Lauretta Gaynor with 24 points was a close second in the junior girls and Pat Gaynor with 21 a good runner up for the junior boys.

the Act and the Scheme.
(4) That legislation be requested from the Provincial Government at its next session, either by way of amendment to the present Act or by way of new legislation to cover any disputed or questionable authority under the present Act.

(5) That an action be commenced that will bring before the courts the specific question as to whether the Board may designate a single agency for the sale of all the crop, and efforts to complete a permanent central selling organization await the decision of that question by the courts.

I do not see how you can settle the question of what changes should be made in the Board and the staff gathered together and trained during the last five years, and the work to be done by the Board; the question of whether to have a full-time or part-time Board; or the remuneration to be paid to Board members, until you have first discussed and settled the question of the central selling agency, and what duties may be safely taken over by it both from the Board and from the other selling organizations.

The Board members have felt it to be their duty to lay these matters before you for your consideration, and they can only hope that they have made their views clear so that they will not be subject to misconception. We feel that the mere fact of my presenting the bills submitted to the Federal Government, and attending the

After a great deal of scrambling around to field a team the baseball club went to Rutland on Sunday and put up a very good contest to be beaten 14 to 4 in this their first game of the season. With many of the regulars not in evidence the team was made up largely of the younger players with Norman and George Ekins the battery. As Kelowna is now going into the northern loop according to report, it is unlikely that the Peachland team will be in a league this year.

The marriage of Mrs. Juva Marconi Anderson to Mr. Monty Fraser, of Kelowna, was quietly solemnized at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, May 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. France in Montebello, Wash., with Rev. Bess Davies performing the ceremony before intimate friends.

The bride was dressed in gray wool with matching accessories. Her attendant was Miss Alda France, who was dressed in beige wool.

Mr. Carlos Pendergraft acted as best man for Mr. Fraser.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held, with Mrs. Edward K. Bishop, of Aberdeen, Wash., pouring and Mrs. Peter Foelkner, of Aberdeen, serving ices. The table was attractive with spring flowers and lighted tapers in the parchment shade. White and pink dogwood was used in profusion in the living room of the France home.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Fraser left for Tacoma where they were the honored guests at a dinner party presided over by Mrs. John Hewitt and Miss Maude Kandle.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser arrived in Kelowna on Wednesday, May 10th, and are making their home on Royle avenue.

The bride appeared at the age of 12 years with the Royal Italian Ballet in Florence, Italy, and within four years of her debut in the romantic city of her birth, she was made premiere danseuse with the Royal Ballet. There followed brilliant successes in other European cities. Even more laurels awaited her in America where Juva Marconi appeared with the Metropolitan Ballet. Later, she appeared in the larger cities in the east with a ballet of her own. She had been guest soloist with Seattle Symphony orchestra, Grays Harbor Symphony orchestra and two years ago she appeared as solo dancer at the Rainbow Room in New York City.

A quiet wedding ceremony was performed on Monday evening, May 15th, at 7 o'clock at the First United church when Irene Bernice, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralfe C. Wilson, of Trail, became the bride of Mr. Harold Herbert Gale, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gale of Kelowna.

Dr. W. W. McPherson performed the wedding ceremony.

The attractive bride looked lovely in a tailored aquamarine frock which was offset by her topeast of Japonica and a hand-made model straw hat of aquamarine with Japonica trim. She carried a bridal bouquet of Talisman roses and maiden hair fern and wore her mother's gold bracelet of antique design.

Miss Ruby Wilson, sister of the bride, was her only attendant and was smart in a tailored Suez frock and hat en tone, while her further accessories were of black. She carried a shower bouquet of anthuriums.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Richard Gale of Kamloops, as best man.

A small reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the groom's parents on Elliott avenue when only immediate friends and relatives were present.

After a short honeymoon to be spent at the coast, Mr. and Mrs. Gale will make their home in Kelowna.

The Summerland Board of Trade has requested the Kelowna board to take some action in obtaining late ferries for the week-end of May 28, so that those persons driving to Kamloops and Revelstoke from south of Kelowna may return to their homes the same night after seeing the King and Queen. BENVOLIN

The pupils of Mission Creek school once more excelled themselves at the rural track meet, which was held in Kelowna on Friday, May 12th. Four cups were secured and the trophy for highest points, the score being 67. Many favorable comments were heard on the smart appearance of the pupils who wore the school colors of red and blue, and much credit is due the teachers for their fine work of training.

Mothers' day was fittingly observed in Benvoulin church last Sunday, May 14, and a specially prepared program carried out, the theme being "The Glory of the Nation." A solo suitable for the occasion was sung by Mrs. Gladys Reid. Next Sunday Gordon Browns of Kelowna will conduct the service in the absence of Rev. A. C. Found, who is attending the conference in Vancouver.

TWO VISITING GYRO CLUBS ENTERTAINED BY KELOWNA

Kamloops and Kelowna Gyros and Gyrettes, numbering nearly forty, visited Kelowna last Sunday to participate in an inter-club golf match for the Bob Seath cup. Kelowna Gyros retained the cup by scoring a small margin over the Kamloops and Pentiction clubs, who finished second and third, respectively. At noon, the visiting Gyros were guests of the local club at a luncheon at the Royal Anne hotel.

Government work has been completed on the K.L.O. road, and the result is a good hard surfaced road bed.

Jim Weeks returned home last Sunday from Kamloops, having motored down in company with his father and uncle, Messrs. Teddy and Arthur Weeks.

WESTBANK ENJOYS CONCERT IN AID OF V.O.N.

Kelowna and Peachland Talent Assistants—W. I. Cleans up Cemetery

Guest artists from Kelowna, as well as Pat Morsh and Miss Morsh of Peachland, contributed to the program at the concert given in the Westbank community hall, on Friday, May 12, in aid of the local branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses. Mrs. R. A. Pritchard welcomed them on behalf of the order, and expressed gratitude for their kindness in giving of their time and talent in aid of the worthy work of the local branch, of which Miss Gowen, is nurse-in-charge.

Members of the women's auxiliary to the Canadian Legion gave an amusing short play, while the delightfully comic dialogue by Mrs. F. Tutt and Mrs. Fraser, was well received. Pat Morsh's lovely numbers on the violin were thoroughly appreciated, and he was accompanied on the piano by his sister, Margaret Mitchell, who very recently gave numbers before a large audience in the hall here, was received enthusiastically, and a spring dance, in which the young dancer was gowned appropriately, were both lovely. Lois Maxon in two tap-dances, received hearty encores and her costumes were very effective. Miss Mary Pratten accompanied her pupils on the piano.

The crowd attending the concert was not as large as had been expected, due no doubt to previous engagements, or the more busy season. However, it is reported that some $18.00 was taken in as a result of the evening's entertainment, from which expenses will have to be deducted. Visitors from both Peachland and Bear Creek were present, and after the conclusion of the program, dancing was enjoyed for a couple of hours, some of the local pianists providing the music.

It is learned that little Elizabeth Reece, who has been ill in hospital at Kelowna, is slightly better. G. W. Stubbs, also a patient in hospital, and to both, as well as to Andy Duzsik, the good wishes of the community are extended.

Miss Una Morrison, of Kelowna, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Hussey last week, returning home on Saturday. Other visitors for a few days were, Philip and Rob Basham, of Vancouver and Prince Rupert respectively, who spent a short holiday at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Basham, Sr.

Don Falwell, of Calgary, who was employed as bookkeeper for the T. B. Reece Shipping Co., arrived in Westbank last week, planning to spend a short time in the district. Dick Young, of Oyama, manager of the local branch of the B.C. Shippers, is also back in Westbank, preparing for another busy season.

The Westbank women's institute arranged for the annual clean-up day at the cemetery on Saturday, May 13, and though in numbers the attendance was rather small, a considerable amount of work was accomplished, and the grounds made neat for another season. Some shrubbery has been planted, and after a time, it is expected that the grounds will present quite a different appearance than at present.

Mrs. Percival and her daughter, Miss Claire Percival, of Watrous, Saskatchewan, were recent visitors in Westbank, where they were guests of friends at Glenrosa and Westbank. They left on Monday, May 8, on their journey home.

Miss Margaret Rolke is spending a holiday at Okanagan Falls, with her sister, Mrs. E. Bazely, who was a visitor at her former home here, her sister accompanying her south.

Rekindle Enthusiasm of First Fall Urges Naramata Road Leader

H. V. Craig Gives Impressive Talk at Annual Banquet and Meeting of Volunteers

H. V. Craig, prime leader in the east-side road work which is pushing a highway slowly but surely towards Naramata, expounded on the work already accomplished when he addressed the annual meeting of the Naramata Road campaign at the Royal Anne hotel on Wednesday, May 10.

The speaker harked back to the novelty of the situation which confronted the first volunteers, and of the great publicity value attached to the movement. In that first fall of 1936, nearly two and a half miles of road of sorts was opened and more than one-third of the distance from Goldsmith's to the canyon was made passable for cars.

Then came the difficult rock work and to many it seemed impossible that this rocky sidehill could be conquered with picks and shovels. All through 1937 and 1938, the volunteers pushed steadily through the tough rock until, finally, on May 7, the Elks and Rowcliffe cannery crew broke through the last bit of rock, leaving six miles of earth and gravel ahead.

Can Be Proud

"Frankly, I think this is an accomplishment of which we can be justly proud and we gladly acknowledge it could never have been accomplished but for the persistent and splendid support from the various organizations," Mr. Craig stated, in naming all the various groups which had taken part.

"This fall we should make our way right through the canyon to Good creek and when we reach that point three-quarters of the distance will have been covered."

"There are many who try to discourage us by tales of the extraordinary difficulty of the country between Good creek and Paradise ranch. We will attend to that when we reach it. At present we are not worrying about it. We have been over it. It does not look any too easy but Kelowna is not so easy to stop. It may take us a little time but I believe we shall get there in the end. To the 'Never Never' section of the community I would just like to say this. Try giving us a hand. Quite possibly you are right, at least it is on the cards we may never get through and you are entitled to your opinion. But give us a hand all the same, perhaps your assistance will make the difference between success and failure and after all you cannot want us to fail and you cannot lose anything by giving us a helping hand."

Mr. Terry (referring to Terrytopics, the Courier cartoonist) treated us to a cartoon in which he depicted the tortoise anxiously looking for Paradise in the distance. Well if I correctly recall the story of the tortoise and the hare it was the tortoise which won the race."

Dr. Boyce Donates Lot

Mr. Craig, before concluding, referred to the generous donation of a lot which Dr. B. F. Boyce has made to the Naramata road cause. This property will be sold to the highest or luckiest bidder and the funds will be devoted to the Naramata road idea.

"We want all the support we can get," Mr. Craig concluded. "We feel that we are over the worst of our difficulties and for the rest of this year we are going places and going fast. Now the going is easier, the boys will be able to see so much more for the days' work. We would like to rekindle the enthusiasm of that first fall and put this job over with a rush."

Harry Witt reported some of the transportation difficulties confronted by the officers of the association and J. N. Cushing spoke briefly on what Charles E. Oliver, ex-revee of Pentiction and termed the "strongest supporter from the south," gave encouragement to the movement, and stated: "One cannot help but admiring the courage of you people. I hope next year you will be within shouting distance of Pentiction."

Officers and the winner of the trip to Vancouver were reported in last week's issue of The Courier. The enjoyable evening's program concluded with the showing of some splendid movie movies by Don Whitham and Capt. J. H. Horn.

meet starting at 9:30 o'clock. There is also the prospect of an archery contest for a challenge trophy. If the airplane meet does not occupy the entire time.

After the school display in the afternoon, the huge crowd will be given a further opportunity to witness the airplane display and following a fifteen-minute demonstration, the track meet for kiddies of six and under up to open events for men and women will be run off.

The concluding number on the Gyro sports card will be a fast box car contest between two city teams. This game is being re-introduced into Kelowna and it would appear that it will become increasingly popular from now on.

Arrangements were made on Tuesday evening with the baseball club that it may take over the grounds at 9:30 o'clock in the afternoon as the Gyro program is concluded for a scheduled league baseball game against Vernon.

In the evening a big wind-up dance will be held in the L.O.O.F. hall, with Pettman's Impetuous supplying the music. The dance will commence downstairs at 8 o'clock with a free dance for the kiddies. This will continue until 9:30 o'clock when the orchestra will adjourn upstairs and the main dance for adults will commence.

Arrangements are being made for a special late ferry and it is hoped to provide free transportation for the school children from the south on the ferry for that day.

KELOWNA SEA CADET CORPS

"Grenville" Company 1358 "Keep Watch"

A large shipment of new uniforms arrived last week and were distributed to the Corps amid much jubilation. Even though the quantity of new uniforms was a large one and the outlay on them was quite heavy, not all the Cadets have as yet been fitted with entirely new rigs. The better parts of the old suits have been resurrected and turned to use again in order to make up the deficiency. Nevertheless these uniforms will provide a very smart turn out at all future parades.

Cadets are urged to keep their uniforms in as smart a shape as possible and to remember that it was only by diligent care that the old rigs were made to last as long as they did.

At the first two parades instruction has been centred on physical training, signalling, first aid and knots, in preparation for the inspection.

Cadet Hall has been promoted to the rank of Leading Cadet. He headed the group in examinations for this position.

Orders for parade:

The Ship's Company will parade at Headquarters on Friday, May 19, at cupps and one shield. Some of the rants are still in training for the O.K. Valley meet this coming Friday.

Exams are now over, pupils have received their reports, and are settling down to their regular studies once more.

Next week the Oddfellows turn out and it is expected they will quickly clean up the little bit of work on the rock and get into the gravel and the easy progress.

Saturday is a holiday and a gang will be made up if there are sufficient volunteers. Anyone desiring to turn out on Saturday please communicate with Percy Harding, Phone 661.

A good turn out for the next few weeks will enable the road to be put into Horse creek and possibly across it.
